“The McMaster Museum of Art is a democratizing, inclusive and polyphonic space for critical dialogue about the pasts and the futures.”
Executive Summary

Over the course of the past year: the second calendar year of the pandemic and a year spent entirely in shut down mode to in-person traffic at the museum, the museum remained busy, if not busier, than usual. Guided by the new Strategic Vision for McMaster University and influenced by the COVID-19 pandemic and its societal impacts, the Museum maintained provision of its regular operations and roles, especially with respect to our focus on decoloniality, as well as substantially grew our on-line world. In terms of the former, collection development and maintenance, as well the production and presentation of new research and exhibition and education programs, continued unabated. Our decolonial strategy continued with seven team sessions, four delivered by outside consultants. In covering topics as specific as the TRC and UNDRIP as well as more broadly, topics such as EDI Fundamentals and the history of the colonial museum, the sessions provided museum staff with empowering learning opportunities as well as strategies to ally-up.

As well in the 2020/21 fiscal, our BIPOC Cultural Administrators Mentorship Program was initiated, offering BIPOC individuals wishing to enter the museum field, tangible paid opportunities to contribute to the museum and develop usable skills. In terms of our digital work in 2020/21, after almost a year of hardware, software, and technical up-grades, we launched a new website and redefined our social media presence as well as significantly enhanced and expanded our on-line database. While we had pivoted seamlessly to the provision of on-line programs for all educational and public programs by the close of March 2020, in 2020/21 we also landed on several creative platforms/means by which we could provide virtual exhibitions. Advancements in this area will continue into 2021/22. Combining the work of web designers and programmers with that of artists and other cultural producers, the Museum has found innovative ways to virtually support and reflect the creative work of our sector.

With the significant global societal shifts precipitated by the pandemic and the lessons learned navigating and providing service in this new and hybrid world, we gratefully and pro-actively head into 2021/22 thinking about and re-imagining colonial collections and re-envisioning how museums serve audiences in the 21st C.

The Organizational Overview, below, provides information on our core purpose and context. Details regarding highlights for the year 2020/21 follow the Overview.

Organizational Overview

MISSION AND VISION
The McMaster Museum of Art is a meeting space for both the campus and the community situated within the traditional territories of the Mississauga and Haudenosaunee Nations. The Museum engages, educates and inspires through: growing an awareness of the interconnectivity of the past, present and future; advancing de-colonization; engaging in innovative and imaginative research; dismantling institutional and ideological boundaries; partnering and collaborating intentionally; diversifying the collection; and building capacity.

Mandate & Role
As a university-affiliated, public art museum, the McMaster Museum of Art is a democratizing, inclusive and polyphonic space for critical dialogue about the pasts and the futures. The Museum aims to be participatory and transparent and to work in active partnership with and for diverse communities to collect, preserve, research, interpret, exhibit, and enhance understandings of the world, aiming to contribute to human dignity and social justice, global equality and planetary wellbeing, (excerpted and adapted from the ICOM, 2019, definition of a museum). Within this framework, the role of the MMA is twofold: to support the academic mission of McMaster University and to contribute to the discourse on art in Canada.

“The role of the MMA is twofold: to support the academic mission of McMaster University and to contribute to the discourse on art in Canada.”

The MMA partners with faculty across all disciplines to produce research, exhibitions, publications, and educational programs that nurture arts-based practices and ways of knowing. As well, the MMA contributes research to the broader Canadian arts milieu through exhibitions, ancillary programs, and publications, that reflect upon issues of concern in contemporary art in Canada. The MMA researches, presents, preserves, cares for and grows the internationally recognized University art collection. The MMA contributes directly to the academic mission of the University by providing arts-based education in formal courses (such as The Art of Seeing), through public and education programs (lectures, workshops, panels and tours), and through hands-on and experiential learning opportunities for students of all ages. The MMA provides significant community outreach beyond the walls of the museum through in-community partnerships and learning opportunities. The MMA contributes to the broader Canadian arts community by partnering on projects such as the national Holocaust-era provenance research project as well as on research and exhibitions with colleague institutions. The staff of the MMA regularly participate on various community-based juries, conferences, and events, as well as through the commissioning of new works of public art. The MMA’s on-line presence is significant within the sector.

Facility and Collection
The MMA resides in a purpose-renovated building located at the centre of McMaster University’s main campus. It comprises 5 galleries, 5 on-site storage vaults, and attendant office and public areas. Specifically, these areas break down as follows: 1,700 net square feet of (non-collection area) public space; 5,000 net square feet of exhibition space; 4,000 net square feet of storage; and 1,200 net square feet of office/administration space. The physical plant of the MMA is maintained by the University proper. The Museum maintains and pays for its own collections insurance coverage as a sub-set of the University’s larger institutional policy. The Museum maintains comprehensive security coverage in collaboration with an independent provider, Campus Security and the City of Hamilton police force. The Museum has 11 full-time staff: Director, Senior Curator, Curator of Indigenous Art, Collections Administrator, Senior Education Officer, Education Officer, Communications Officer, Installation Officer, and 3 Information Officers. The Curatorial staff is broadened by the addition of an Honorary Curator of Numismatics and Antiquities, a position currently held by Dr. Spencer Pope, Department of Classics, McMaster University. The Museum annually hosts a BIPOC Cultural Administrators Mentorship Program wherein two mentees per year are employed with the intention of building capacity for diverse cultural work, knowledge and transformation in the Canadian milieu. Various student and community volunteers round out the staff complement at the MMA, helping primarily with educational programming and events.

Of the 40 university-affiliated art galleries/museums nation-wide, the MMA houses one of the top 3 collections in one of the best facilities in the country.

The collection at the MMA numbers 6,000+ works of art and contains important historical, modern and contemporary period works.

Highlights include:
» The Herman H. Levy Collection of Impressionist, Post-Impressionist and Modern work: including paintings by Caillebotte, Courbet, Derain, Marquet, Monet, Pissaro, Sickert, Soutine and Van Gogh;
» the Denner Wallace Collection, the most comprehensive collection of German Expressionist and Weimar period prints in Canada, including works by Barlach, Beckmann, Dix, Kirchner and Kollwitz;
» a significant holding of European Old Master works including 16th to 18th Century paintings and prints from Gosseart to Turner;
» 20th Century European art including modernist and contemporary artists from Duchamp, Nicholson and Rodchenko to Beuys, Kiefer, Kapoor and Richter;
» Canadian art including historical works by Thomson, Milne and the Group of Seven and including contemporary works by Andrews, Astman, Goodwin, Keeley, Maggs and Scherman;
» the Inuit collection with a focus on Cape Dorset prints and sculpture including works by Kenojuak, Pitseolak and Toookoome;
» and modern and contemporary First Nations Art, including works by artists of the Woodland School such as Kakegamic and Morrisseau; the first generation of “modernists” such as Ash Poitras, Beam, and Boyer; photo work by the likes of Thomas, Staats, and McMaster; and contemporary artists such as Sunny Assu, Catherine Blackburn, and Mary Anne Barkhouse.
Organizational Overview

Exhibitions and Programs
The MMA produces on average 8 - 12 exhibitions annually and augments those exhibitions with research publications and ancillary programs (public and educational) geared to engage both the campus and broader community audiences. Throughout its history, the MMA has actively contributed to the dialogue on contemporary art while maintaining an active research program on the objects in the permanent collection. The Museum, from its outset, has maintained a “doors open” policy in terms of collections access.

Context/Milieu
The MMA is one among several cultural institutions in the Hamilton area. The City of Hamilton manages several historic buildings and homes – Dundurn Castle, Military Museum, Museum of Steam & Technology, Whitehern Historic House, and a Children’s Museum; as well the city is home to the Art Gallery of Hamilton and the James Street North artists’ district. The MMA attempts to distinguish its contribution to the arts scene in the area by directing a de-colonial lens on traditional museological practice; disrupting the normative narrative; facilitating the presentation of work by diverse voices; and providing programming that is directed toward scholarly research and inter-disciplinary projects.

The museum contributes to the national and international cultural community in terms of collaborative exhibition projects and the use of its collections by sister institutions. Works of art from the collection are borrowed by international institutions such as the Belvedere Palace, Vienna, Austria; Tate Modern, Tate Britain, Brooklyn Museum, and Kunsthalle Bremen, Denmark, among others. In Canada, MMA works are regularly borrowed by the Art Gallery of Hamilton, Winnipeg Art Gallery, Art Gallery of Ontario, Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and the National Gallery of Canada, among others.

(Refer to Appendix One: Institutional Achievements 2007-2021 for details regarding on-going developments in (exceptional) funding, organizational competence & development, digital & social media launches, platforms & development, collections management, facility maintenance, awards and, exceptional circumstances).

2020/2021 Highlights

Administration
In 2020/21 the Museum saw the retirement of two long-time staff (26 and 33 years respectively!) and the subsequent replacement of those employees. In February we welcomed Elyse Vickers as Communications Officer and in July, Sam de Lange as Installation Officer. One in-gallery position, Information Officer, remained vacant for the reporting period as the museum was closed to in-person visits due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The Museum’s BIPOC Cultural Administrators Mentorship Program successfully ran its first year of operations with mentees Erin Szikora and stylo starr completing research and exhibition/publication-production projects. The program is supported by funds from the Canada Council for the Arts and the Office of the Provost. The Nominations Sub-Committee of the MMA Advisory Committee also took the opportunity during summer 2021 to engage a roster of six new members as there were several members who came to the end of their three and/or six-year term(s) on June 30th, 2021. In the Faculty Category, we have welcomed Dr. Selina Mudavanhu, Assistant Professor, Communication Studies and Multimedia. In the Community Category, Dr. Clare Warner, Senior Advisor, Equity, Inclusion & Anti-Racism, Student Affairs, McMaster University; Leon Robinson, artist, Hamilton; Lorrie Gallant, Instructor, Six Nations Polytechnic Institute, Six Nations of the Grand River Territory; Alex Jacobs-Blum, Independent Curator, Hamilton; and Naomi Johnson, Executive Director, ImagineNative, Toronto. We look forward to welcoming these new members to the winter 2022 Advisory Committee meeting.

Our Decolonial Strategy continued through the 2020/21 year with the provision of seven sessions, four led by external consultants and three by in-house members. The external consultants included staff from McMaster University’s Office of Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion, and staff from Cultural Pluralism in the Arts Movement Ontario (CPAMO). Topics covered included Language, Meaning & Action, EDI Fundamentals, Critical Institutional Responsiveness, the history of the colonial museum, a comprehensive review of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, recommendations from the Truth & Reconciliation Commission, as well as a session designed for self-reflection following three years of decolonial working as a museum team. (Please see Appendix Two for details regarding sessions and readings lists for same).

Over the course of the summer, the museum was out-fitted with barriers, signage and PPE to prepare for the re-opening of the building to in-person visits in the Fall of 2021. No other major facility projects were required/undertaken in the reporting period.

In terms of revenues from external granting bodies, principally arts-related, the Museum had a very successful year. In 2020/21, we utilized a Sector Development Grant ($25,000) from the Canada Council for the Arts for our BIPOC Cultural Administrators Mentorship Program; a COVID Response Grant ($50,000) and an Arts Response Initiative Grant ($15,000) both from the Ontario Arts Council; a COVID-19 Emergency Support Fund for Cultural, Heritage and Sport Organization Grant ($100,000) from the Department of Canadian Heritage; and carried forward a Project Grant ($60,000) from the Canada Council for the Arts for an exhibition set for production in fall 2022. The CCA Mentorship Program grant was further supported by an $8,000 commitment to the Program from the Office of the Provost. In 2020/21, we also applied for and were successful in acquiring a Department of Canadian Heritage Re-opening Fund for Cultural, Heritage and Sport Organizations Grant ($100,000); and two grants from the Ontario Arts Council: an Operating Grant ($50,000) and a Project Grant ($16,200) for an exhibition in winter 2022. As well in 20/21 we received a special Project Grant ($45,500) from the National Sciences and Engineering Research Council for a fall 2021 exhibition. At the time of writing, we await notification from the Department of Canadian Heritage on a submission to the Community, Sport, Multi-culturalism & Anti-Racism Initiative Grant program to cover two years of our BIPOC Mentorship Program ($169,000) for the period April 2022 (April 2023) to (April 2023- ) March 2024. The Office of the Provost has made a commitment to the latter grant opportunity by committing $10,000 per year for the term of the grant.

In the last year, the MMA was closed to in-person visits due to the COVID-19 pandemic. In terms of our on-line presence in the reporting period, numbers remained healthy. The Museum launched a new website in April 2021. The website boasted 37,707 page views. It is important to note that our engagement on our homepage compared to last year increased by over 7%. A decrease in pageviews is notable on the current and upcoming exhibitions page, which can be attributed to 1) exhibitions now appearing on the homepage – ie users do not need to click through several pages to find important exhibition information and 2) we had fewer exhibitions in the noted time period due to the physical museum being closed. With respect to the Museum’s on-line database, e-museum, the site enjoyed 17,890 page views. In terms of our other digital platforms and social media, the Museum noted increasing figures in all areas, including the e-newsletter, 1,771 subscribers; Facebook, 2,685 followers; Instagram, 3,040 followers (increase of 35%); and Twitter, 3,376 followers. The Museum’s walking tour of campus saw a notable decline to 413 views (from 780 in 2019/20), (the fewer people on campus due to the pandemic, accounts for the decrease). Our GeoCache Art Adventure Coins, launched in 2011, continued to see activity with seven coins still in circulation, 50 logged visits in the current period (and 580 logged visits over the Coins lifetime).

Collections

The pandemic brought a halt to our daily activities at the museum, but also gave us the opportunity to focus on doing the solitary job of conducting a massive in-house inventory. The work took place during regular check-ins to ensure the storage areas were maintained at the correct levels of temperature and humidity. From March 2020 through to May 2021 every work in the museum’s paper centre, in excess of 4200 objects, were inventoried and examined. Archival materials such as tissue paper and drawer liner boards were replaced where necessary, and any stray works were relocated to their proper homes. Storage was streamlined and improved where possible.

This undertaking also allowed for the continued examination of our collection following the best practices set out by the Holocaust-Era Provenance Research in Canadian Art Museums and Galleries (CHERP) initiated by the Canadian Art Museum Directors Organization (CAMDO). The museum has been a participant in CHERP’s activities from its inception in 2013 and has continued to research and evaluate McMaster’s collection using their guidebook. All artworks of European origin dating from 1945 or before were examined front and back for any unusual stamps or inscriptions.

The inventory has continued into our painting vaults this fall. To date it has been a fruitful undertaking in that we have verified locations and the condition of the objects, old archival materials have been replaced to ensure the longevity of the works in storage, and we have a better idea of what remaining space is available for our future storage needs.
2020/2021 Highlights

Also, in the pandemic shutdown, the MMA undertook an exciting new upgrade of our online searchable database called eMuseum in 2021. Internationally renowned software provider Gallery Systems in New York has become the industry standard for most North American galleries and museums. McMaster has been running their database software, The Museum System (TMS) since 2008, and its online counterpart, eMuseum, since 2011. eMuseum allows our web visitors to browse through McMaster’s art collection and antiquities. In 2020 we decided to upgrade to the very latest software iteration, eMuseum 6.1, as it provided us with a fresh new look and added features such as:

» Cleaner interface which matches the museum’s new branding
» Larger, more dynamic images of objects with deep zooming capabilities
» In-house customization to tailor different modules to suit our programming, from educational classes to curatorial projects and events
» Dashboard editing capabilities we control
» Object records which can be easily shared on multiple social media platforms
» Option to create favourites and individual collections

The upgrade was guided by the Research and High-Performance Computing Support (RHPCS) at McMaster, specifically our fabulous technical team Wale Soyinka, Senior Research Computing Specialist & RHPCS Representative, Faculty of Science and Todd Pfaff, Technical Director, RHPCS & Liaison, Faculty of Humanities, who ensured a smooth transition. The upgrade was two-fold, as we first needed to upgrade TMS to its most current version, which took place in the fall of 2020. A new server and appropriate hardware upgrades were up and running by December. From January through April, 2021, Gallery Systems took over customization of the site to match our branding and website. The staff reviewed the content and further edits took place over the summer, with the site going live on August 12, 2021.

In terms of on-going collection work, in 2020-2021 the Museum acquired forty-five works of art: one through purchase and forty-four through donation. Thirty-eight of the donated works were acquired through the generosity of long-time supporter and alumnus of McMaster University, John Hansler. Hansler’s collection included outstanding works by Indigenous artist Arthur Shilling and by Canadians, Carl Schaefer, William Ronald, Kazuo Nakamura, Arthur Lismer, Fritz Brandtner and Harold Klunder among several others. In the reporting period, the Museum loaned six works of art from the permanent collection to sister cultural institutions: to the Art Gallery of Hamilton, Wanuskewin Galleries, Saskatoon; and the Vancouver Art Gallery. In 2020/21, the Museum wrapped up its touring exhibition, #nofilterneeded: shining light on the Native Indian/Inuit Photographers Association, which had toured to galleries in Gatineau (QC), Lethbridge (AB), and Thunder Bay (ON), following a successful run at the MMA. (Collection details regarding acquisitions, loans and touring exhibitions can be found in Appendices Three, Four and Five).
2020/2021 Highlights

Exhibitions
For the entire reporting period, the Museum was closed to in-person visits due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Nevertheless, as reported last year, the Museum continued to contribute actively and significantly through the digital environment during this time wherein all tours, classes, courses, and special events (panels, lectures, receptions, etcetera) occurred on-line. In 2020/2021, after significant research and newly developed collaborations, the Museum added virtual exhibitions to our on-line offerings: for the annual School of the Arts graduating exhibition SUMMA 2021, as well as for the exhibition the cut, the tear & the remix: contemporary collage and Black futures. The latter exhibition brought together the work of eight contemporary artists (Emkay Adjei-Manu, Anna Binta Diallo, FEZA, Kofi Oduro, Sonya Mwambu, SPATIAL-ESK, Ghislan Timm, Yung Yemi) deeply engaged in the excavation of a future informed by their individual ancestral connections to the African and Caribbean diaspora and their varied interpretations of collage. This online exhibition presented “cut & paste” techniques in not only its traditional tactile paper and photomontage iterations, but also in uncharacteristic expressions of new media including video, text and design. The digital presentation of the remix, because of the global pandemic, was in and of itself an envisioning of the future of Black spatial and temporal experiences marking an invitation to participate in this new imagining.

The SUMMA 2021 student exhibition, entitled Quixotic, explored the quixotic, all that is deemed idealistic, starry-eyed and impractical. Working and creating under unusual circumstances, quixoticism has become a liberating vehicle for the student artists to explore and sharpen their craft. This show encapsulated the multiple ways that these bright young artists adapted and investigated the undeniable cruciality of art and quixotic perspective in tumultuous times. We also began in the 20/21 to create virtual exhibitions for both September 2021 exhibitions: Immune Nations: The Vaccine Project and enawendewin: relationships. The Museum broadened our capabilities with these projects and worked with local partners: media and artists alike.

“The 2021 SUMMA exhibition explored the quixotic, all that is deemed idealistic, starry-eyed and impractical.”
2020/2021 Highlights

Finally in 2020/2021, the Museum also hosted out-door public art projects by Tracey-Mae Chambers with the installation Hope & Healing Canada located in the Museum’s artists’ garden on campus; and by Shellie Zhang’s To What Do We Owe This Honor? in the downtown core in association with Hamilton’s massive annual music and art festival, Supercrawl.

Chambers work is part of her #HopeAndHealingCanada project, which contemplates themes of connection, reflection, and healing in the wake of the COVID-19, and the daily news of unrest around the world. In recognizing the need to reconnect, #HopeAndHealingCanada created space for people to pause and reflect and heal towards a more hopeful and brighter future. The project continues a cross Canada tour.

Shellie Zhang’s mural showed a collection of miniature decorative objects against a backdrop of a sky, creating a connection between the intimate setting of one’s home and the shared realm of public space. The project was intended to prompt reflection on the objects we surround ourselves with and the monuments we adorn our cities with, questioning which symbols reflect our current collective values, whose legacies are given permanence and what histories are given a pedestal.

2020/2021 Highlights

Curatorial staff at the MMA on-goingly expand their reach into the community and contribute to the broader Canadian arts milieu through a variety of opportunities: guest lecturing and teaching, exhibition, publication and research collaborations, arts service organization and institutional governance participation, and conference and workshop presentations.

This past year, Pamela Edmonds, Senior Curator, worked alongside colleagues at Art Gallery of Peterborough, University of Utah, NIA Centre for the Arts, RACAR, CONTACT Photography Festival, Hamilton Arts Award, Museum Of Contemporary Canadian Art, Art Gallery of Greater Victoria/Confederation Arts Centre, Royal Ontario Museum, Cultural Pluralism in the Arts Movement Ontario, Canadian Art Magazine and Supercrawl. Edmonds also initiated and submitted an Open Letter to Canadian Art Magazine (print and online) from Black Curators Forum in the special issue on “Chroma” Black Canadian Art - “A Letter from the Black Curators Forum to Contemporary Art Institutions and Organizations across This Land Called Canada.” Rheanne Chartrand, Curator of Indigenous Art, taught at Ryerson University and University of Toronto. She is a continuing Board Member of the Shushkitew (Metis) Collective and the Indigenous Curatorial Collective. She has collaborated this past year with colleagues at Lulu World Arts & Music, Minneapolis Institute of Art, Ontario College of Art & Design University, and the Canadian Art Institute. Carol Podedworny, Director and Chief Curator collaborated with colleagues at University of Alberta, Supercrawl, Waterloo Region Arts Awards, Canadian Art Museum Directors Organization and University/College Art Gallery Association of Canada. She is a member of the latter’s Anti-Racist Equity Committee.

Education and Public Programs

The Museum provides ancillary programming in two areas: education and public programs. Education programs are those programs geared towards groups (campus, community, and school), and are distinguished by offerings at the elementary, middle, high school, and community level as well as, post-secondary offerings. Educational programs take the form of formal courses, tours of exhibitions, hands-on workshops, and so forth. They are broadly content rich in areas related to art, culture and society, museum practices, and health and wellness, as well as reflecting on the thematic and artistic content of the exhibitions in the museum. Public programs are comprised of those events that specifically address the exhibition content in the museum at any given time and are geared towards a general museum-going audience. Public programs take the form of receptions, artists’ talks, lectures by guest speakers, panel discussions, artists’ performances, film and video screenings, music performances and so on. From year-to-year, the variety, breadth, and number of education and public programs produced by the MMA is truly astonishing!

2020/2021 Highlights

In 2020/21, the museum provided directed post-secondary educational programs to five groups through our partnership program with the Department of Family Medicine, The Art of Seeing, including courses through DFM and McMaster Continuing Education. Post-secondary offerings also included work with DeGroote School of Business, both their Health Leaders Academy and Medicine First Year Professional Competencies Course; McMaster University Nursing; McMaster Children & Youth University; McMaster Continuing Education, 55+ Courses; School of Graduate Studies, Creativity Courses; and an ‘imagining’ course for 2SLGBTQ workshop. Research collaborations at the post-secondary level took place between Museum education staff and DFM on three projects (visual inquiry, past participants, and Indigenous teaching through art), and with McMaster’s iBiomed Program in association with the Health & Engineering, Science and Entrepreneurship Specialization program, as well as through the supervision of a student in the Health Sciences Inquiry course, 3H06.

At the school and community level, the Museum developed and presented eight new programs in 2020/21 and developed (continuing and new) programs with the following: Hess Street Elementary School, Westdale High School, Hamilton Wentworth District School Board, Hamilton YMCA, McMaster University Sexual Violence Prevention and Reporting Office, McMaster Engineering, and McMaster Employee Health and Well-Being. More broadly, the Museum provided tours to thirteen campus groups, four community groups and nine school groups. The Museum continued to deliver its annual programming in support of several local campus and community events, among them Hamilton Winterfest, Hamilton Arts Week, Culture Days and Slow Art Day (national), as well as McMaster Alumni Day, Welcome Week, Take Our Kids to Work Day, and all Summer and March Break Camps.

Also in the community, the education staff of the MMA, Nicole Knibb, Senior Education Officer and Teresa Gregorio, Education Officer, actively participate in leadership roles in sector service organizations such as the Hamilton-Area Museum Educators and the Canadian Art Gallery Educators groups. (Details regarding specialized programs, general tours, research contributions and community outreach related to the educational programs of the MMA can be found in Appendix Six).
2020/2021 Highlights

Marketing and Promotion
The MMA’s website/digital engagement remained strong throughout the year, despite the physical museum being closed for the noted period. In response to the virtual environment, there was an effort to increase and broaden our social media presence. This resulted in 35% increase in followers on Instagram, 10% increase in views on our YouTube channel. In terms of media, there were a range of publications throughout the year, the most significant being a comprehensive and thoughtful 20-page print spread of the remix exhibition in Pitch Magazine, a Black arts & culture publication. The MMA also formed relationships with new media including collage focused publication Kolaj magazine and Indigenous publication Muskrat magazine. A new website and digital brand identity were launched in spring 2021 – more accurately representing the museum’s commitment to digital innovation, open dialogue and collaboration. The new brand has been very well received both by industry peers and in the arts & the design industries, receiving positive reviews by respected design publications including Applied Arts Magazine, The Brand Identity, and essential design.

In terms of media coverage in the reporting period, the Museum garnered print and digital articles in the following:
» AGO Insider
» Akimbo
» Applied Arts Magazine
» Beyond James
» CFMU 99.3
» Education News Canada
» Hamilton Spectator
» Incite Magazine
» Kolaj Magazine
» McMaster Daily News
» Muskrat Magazine
» PITCH magazine
» The Silhouette
» Tourism Hamilton
» Urbanicity Hamilton.

De-colonizing the Museum: a process for the development of a de-colonizing, de-centering and anti-racist agenda for the MMA

TIMELINE
2006 – CP joins MMA, research, collections and exhibitions of Indigenous Art become a regular component of MMA work (16 exhibitions, solo and/or group, that include the work of Indigenous artists between 2006 and 2016)

July 2016 – June 2017 – Rhéanne Chartrand fills position of Aboriginal Curatorial Resident at the MMA, supported through the Offices of the President and the Provost. This is the first such position at the MMA

July 2017 – June 2020 – funding for the position of Curator of Indigenous Art is confirmed for 3 years, supported through the Office of the Provost

October 29, 2018 – Taking Stock: An Assessment of the MMA, Rhéanne Chartrand
» Chartrand presents Director / Chief Curator with a personal and critical assessment of the MMA—past and present—with recommendations for immediate and future actions the institution can undertake to advance institutional decolonization

January 15, 2019 – De-colonizing the MMA/ A Response, Carol Podedworny
» Formal response by Podedworny to Chartrand’s assessment; acknowledgement of criticism and suggestion of next steps
» Formal in-person meeting to discuss next steps held February 27, 2019

March 11, 2019 – CP reaches out to Dr. Rick Monture, ISP and English & Cultural Studies, re: a joint partnership for a University-wide initiative (which he had presented to CP in the summer of 2018), don’t speak again until summer 2019 where university-wide initiative is raised again

March 26, 2019 – CP reaches out to Dr. Arig al Shaibah, VP, Office of Equity & Inclusion, al Shaibah reaches out, Fall 2019, through Pamela Edmonds

May 8, 2019 – first Taking Stock staff session led by Chartrand

May 13, 2019 – Senior Curator, Pamela Edmonds joins the MMA Team

July 2019 – in advance of three-year timeframe, the position of Curator of Indigenous Art is permanently supported by the Board of Governors of the University through the Budget Committee

MEETINGS
1. May 8th – led by Chartrand
   session introduced the project/strategy; the foundational reading list; and an opportunity to share experiences.

2. June 5th - led by Chartrand & Edmonds
   Session was a focused on introducing Pamela to the team, getting the staff to talk a bit about their lived experiences, and Appendix Two: Decolonial Strategy

discussing the articles; Carol provided insight into what it was like to curate in the 80s & why she stopped in the 90s.

*sometime in late July or August Pamela & Rhéanne develop a formal plan for four (4) sessions — only 3 of 4 were executed.

   » Session focused on self-reflective exercise of acknowledging privilege in case scenarios; discussed 3 articles: McIntosh, DiAngelo, and Tuck & Yang; assigned homework to complete worksheet on “Sources of Privilege & Power.”

   » Took-up homework; discussion focused on workplace micro-aggressions and being allies; advanced the notion of “accomplice,” not “ally” as the choice word/action through looking at the zine produced by Indigenous Action Media.

2020

   » Session looked at the Turning the Page document produced by CMA/AFN in late 80s in response to The Spirit Sings, a controversial exhibition which changed the landscape of Museum—Indigenous relations and emphasized that museums are not neutral spaces and that they cannot be apolitical, given their histories and collections; Pamela discussed the 1989-90 racist and demeaning ROM exhibition, Into the Heart of Africa, and its negative impact on Black Canadians and their relationship to institutions.

6. March 18 – cancelled due to COVID
   » Was supposed to examine: “Operational & Structural Barriers…and Solutions,” which would explore where barriers exist at the MMA: outreach strategies and their limits; collecting practices; wanted to assign an article about how Concordia University had divested funding from oil and gas industries as an expression of structural change (aligning actions with ethics); discussion would have centered on the questions: Who is at the table? Who has a seat and who does not? Who is missing? What seats at the table do not exist yet?

7. May 28 – led by Chartrand & Edmonds, re-examination of Tuck & Yang’s article, “Decolonization is Not a Metaphor” — lengthy discussion with staff unpacking the article, read at a previous session but required further discussion.

8. June 3 - prompted both by the rise in global protests against systemic racism and reflections from the May 28 “Taking Stock” session, Chartrand and Edmonds co-authored an email to MMA staff explaining the necessity of a change in direction with respect to the MMA's decolonization process. The police-involved deaths of George Floyd and Regis Korchinski-Paquet, ongoing state violence against Black and Indigenous bodies, and the militarized responses to protest actions directed at dismantling monuments and memorials associated with colonial histories concretized for Chartrand and Edmonds the very real need to re-commit to radical, participatory, and active de-colonial work within the institution. To mark this shift—or re-commitment—it was suggested that staff participation in the “Taking Stock” sessions be voluntary moving forward and, in keeping with the action-oriented training focus and the larger institutional re-branding efforts, that “Taking Stock” be renamed to “MMA Decolonization Bootcamp.”

9. July 17 - after consultations conducted by Carol Podedworny with the MMA staff, a subsequent email was sent postponing further sessions throughout the summer. Subsequently CP sent global museum related de-colonization strategy articles to all staff in August; and projected for the fall, 3 sessions facilitated by/with external consultants trained in cross-cultural and cultural sensitivity work.

10. September 23rd with Michael Etherington, Indigenous Relations Consultant, Toronto

11. September 30th with Michael Etherington
   » Sessions were focused on building a history and knowledge-base for understanding. Topics included terminology, addressing racism and discrimination, assimilation policy in Canada and treaties and inherent rights in Canada.

12. October 20th with Khadijeh Rake, Katelyn Knott and Tolu Ojo, McMaster EDI
   » Session was focused on building shared intentions for on-going EDI work at the MMA. Session also included information on EDI fundamentals, Land Acknowledgements, De-colonization and Solidarity Movements, and Anti-Black Racism.

13. December 16th with Michael Etherington, Indigenous Relations Consultant, Toronto
   » Session focused on organizational Indigenous Cultural Competency. Framework and planning principles for the MMA; the inter-play between the organization and the individual. Areas considered: cultural competency, cultural humility, implementation and implications of cultural competency.

Appendix Seven: Communications Report

Communications Summary
» M(M)A’s website/digital engagement remained strong throughout the year, despite the physical museum being closed for the noted period
» In response to the virtual environment, there was an effort to increase and broaden our social media presence. This resulted in:
  » 35% increase in followers on Instagram
  » 10% increase in views on our YouTube channel
» In terms of media, there were a range of publications throughout the year, the most significant being a comprehensive and thoughtful 20-page print spread of the remix exhibition in Pitch Magazine, a Black arts & culture publication
» The MMA also formed relationships with new media including collage focused publication Kolaj magazine and Indigenous publication Muskrat magazine
» A new website and digital brand identity were launched in spring 2021 – more accurately representing the museum’s commitment to digital innovation, open dialogue and collaboration. The new brand has been very well received both by industry peers and in the arts & the design industries, receiving positive reviews by respected design publications including Applied Arts Magazine, The Brand Identity, and essential design

Awards
» Hamilton Spectator Readers’ Choice Awards
  » Best Art Gallery (Platinum)
  » Best Museum (Shortlist - Top 10)
» Also of note: stylo starr, curator of the cut, the tear & the remix: contemporary collage and Black futures and participant in the BIPOC Curatorial Mentorship program at the MMA won a Creator Award from the Hamilton Arts Awards in June 2021

Website
» museum.mcmaster.ca
  » New website launched in April 2021
  » Reviewed in: The Brand Idenitity, Applied Arts Magazine, esntial design
  » 37 707 page views by 13 000 + users
  » 29 514 unique page views
  » Important to note that our engagement on our homepage compared to last year increased by over 7%

Appendix Seven: Communications Report

A decrease in pageviews is notable on the current and upcoming exhibitions page, which can be attributed to 1) exhibitions now appearing on the homepage – ie users do not need to click through several pages to find important exhibition information and 2) we had fewer exhibitions in the noted time period due to the physical museum being closed.

Social Media
Summary
- Objective: Enhance the MMA’s public presence, engagement and relationship with: the McMaster community, the arts community (local, national, international), and the general public
- Frequency: Social media feeds are updated regularly: at least 3x week on Instagram, with daily posts on Instagram stories, 3x week on Facebook, and 2-5x week on Twitter
- Content: Exhibitions, education, collection, industry/community
- Demographics: Predominantly female audience across all platforms (over 70%), 25-45 years of age

YouTube
- 16,025 views (increase of 10%)
- 76 new subscribers – 391 total
- 30 new videos published (including SUMMA artist talks)
